Local Cultural Program Dies Natural Death As Patronage Dwindles

Voices of Notables Fade Into Past As Town Hall Ends

By GLENN SCHOTTEN
OBITUARY: Born in Salem in 1943. Lived in Salem entire life. Died in 1963. In failing health for the past several years. Killed by television, public apathy and change of modern times.

Salem Town Hall is dead. One of the city's greatest contemporary cultural institutions, it died a lingering death as interest dwindled to almost embarrassing proportions. With it died half of the city's organized cultural life. Only the community concert series remains.

During its zesty youth in the grim days of World War II, great and near-great speakers filed month after month onto the stage at the Junior High Auditorium, speaking always to capacity or near-capacity houses.

THESE WERE THE DAYS of wonderment about faraway places where near and dear ones were embattled against the Nazi, Fascist or Nipponese hordes. Foreign correspondents were popular and common as Town Hall speakers because they might shed some light on the war the newspapers might not. It was a time of patriotic fervor and Town Hall boomed.

The personages who passed across the stage of the Salem Town Hall would read like a Who's Who. Some are living; some are dead. Some rose to still greater heights; others dropped out of sight.

There were scientists, travelers, adventurers, authors, writers, politicians, statesmen, even European counts and even a pretender to a throne.

SOME OF THE LECTURES, far from being dull, were sparked with great excitement. It was March 1, 1948, when a heavily accented, ex-premier of Austria, Kurt von Schussnigg, had just completed a lecture on "Problems of Central Europe" and discovered he had problems right here in Salem.

As the question session was about to begin, a mysterious young couple appeared at the rear of the auditorium. Suddenly, and with a great flurry and heel-clicking, the young woman stormed down the aisle toward Von Schussnigg.

Fiery-eyed, the woman, who apparently owned property in Austria, almost hysterically demanded to know of the ex-premier why he permitted their apartment in Vienna to be fired upon, although the implications of the question never became fully known. Walter Strain, who introduced the speaker, and was in a prime position to sense what was occurring, noted the woman's purse was slightly ajar and a metallic gleam issued from it. "A gun, perhaps?" he thought.

But Von Schussnigg was up to the confrontation and squelched a further scene by asking her if it was wise "to wash Austria's dirty linen in public" and requested a private meeting. The couple drove off toward Youngstown. Whether the meeting ever evolved is unknown.

ON JAN. 17, 1950, Lowell Thomas Jr., back from an Asian trek with his famous dad, was scheduled to speak on "Out of This World". Before the lecture began, the mob of spectators which swarmed into the Junior High thought they might be making their worldly exit.

So jammed was the auditorium, foyer, halls and steps that the building began to tremble, recollects Miss Mary Bowman, who might be called "Miss Town Hall" herself. She has been secretary.

Firemen, fearing a calamity rushed to the scene, and a crowd outside, almost as large as that inside, had to be turned away.

At other times Town Hall was uncannily prophetic.

On March 6, 1953, Louis Fischer, an authority on Russia, was talking about that country, Stalin and his influence in the world. Within hours the Russian ruler died, a case of pure coincidence since Town Hall talks were scheduled months in advance. Fischer, after his lecture here, was called from Washington immediately to confer with State Department officials about Stalin.

At another time — Oct. 24, 1962 — Willem L. Oltmans was delivering a talk on "Cuba in 1962" the very week that the Cuban crisis came to a boil.

Besides Thomas' talk, largest audiences were recorded for two others: Dale Carnegie, who lectured on "How to Banish Fear and Worry", Jan. 27, 1949, and Marion Hargrove, of "See Here, Private Hargrove" fame.

DR. BROOKS EMENY, form erly of Salem and prominent world traveler, returned home to give several lectures, including "Facts, Forces and Dilemmas in World Affairs" in 1948 and "The World Over" in 1950.

Dr. Emeny was the driving force behind the establishment of Town Hall in Salem. He was head of the Foreign Policy Association in Cleveland when, in 1942, Newton D. Baker, erstwhile Secretary of War under President Woodrow Wilson, suggested that a Town Hall such as was operating in Cleveland be tried in a smaller city as an experiment. Would it succeed in a city of 10,000 or 15,000

The Inquiring Reporter

Once each week Salem News reporter-photographer, Carol Croft, will interview people at random, on the street and at their homes, on timely topics of interest. In this first feature, which it is hoped will prove popular and interesting, the question asked is: "Do You Think More Women Should Run For Public Office?" The answers appear below.

N. I. Walken, 1558 E. 3rd St., State Theater owner and operator: "It all depends on what office. If they're competent, I don't see why not."

Dick Thomas, 956 E. 6th St., Sherwin-Williams paint store manager: "Yes, I think more women should run for public office, especially locally."

Mrs. Don Clarico, 969 Jones Dr., housewife: "I don't see why not, as long as they're qualified."

Charles Haldi, 965 Highland Ave., shoe store owner: "I think they should. They're half the population. If they're capable, they're just as conscientious as men."

Roger Tuel, 501 W. 4th St., sprayer at the Eljer plant: "No, I don't think so. No particular reason, though."

Don Finch, 264 Ohio Ave., Sohio service station operator: "I don't think so. Guess I'm old-fashioned. I don't think enough men have respect for women's judgment on a governmental level. I think women are too easily swayed by their emotions."

Mrs. Guy E. Byers, 2101 E. State St., executive director of the YWCA: "Yes, I think women have a great deal to offer. With their experience and background they should do very well in public office. In the home, they have to do everything."

Mrs. Mildred Davies, 184 E. 4th St., waitress, Ye Olde Coffee Cup: "I feel that women would be all right in government provided they weren't married and that they had no responsibilities at home. Married women shouldn't work at all unless there is no other alternative or nature of support."

Mrs. Ray Abrams, 833 Washington Ave., housewife: "I think there would be new ideas brought in if more women were to run. A woman could become president if all women voted for her. If we were strong enough to win suffrage, we ought to be able to win in politics."

Miss Amelia Buta, 503 Walnut St., language arts teacher, Salem Junior High School: "I think they should take a more active part to know what's going on in government."

Sharply Cut Aid Bill Approved by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's $827,250,000 — cut in President Kennedy's foreign aid bill flashed a warning to the administration that the whole overseas assistance program, unless sharply curtailed and revised, may be on its way out.

The amendment-riddled $3,702,365,000 authorization measure—more sharply reduced than any since the foreign aid program started after World War II—cleared the Senate Friday by a 63-17 vote.

But the temper in Congress—and presumably around the 50 mile Scrambles race-1:30 pm Sunday at Western Reserve Club grounds on Middletown Rd.

country, judging from what senators say about their mail—is such that further cuts seem certain next week. Senate and House conferees meet then to adjust differences between the Senate bill and the $3,502,075,000 measure previously voted by the House.

And further reductions appear likely when Congress acts on the foreign aid appropriations measure which will provide the actual money for which the authorization bill simply sets ceilings.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who had the task of steering the bill to passage, said in an interview that the future of the whole program is in danger unless the Agency for International Development (AID) can make it more palatable to Congress next year.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that "the present pattern of aid is no longer feasible and some new approach will have to be found for American

Kennedy Gets Report on Space Efforts

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy flew here today for a first hand report on the nation's man in space program and to watch the submarine firing of a Polaris missile.

The presidential jet touched down on the Cape Canaveral skit strip at 10:10 a.m. EST after a flight from Palm Beach where Kennedy is relaxing for the weekend.

He was greeted by test center and National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials and immediately joined a motorcade for a swift tour.

A jammed two-hour schedule called for the chief executive to view the world's most powerful rocket, a Saturn 1; discuss the two-man Gemini program with astronauts Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom; receive a progress report on the Sunday near Toledo in Mitchell's burned car. The girl's skull was fractured and Mitchell had been shot four times. The corner said both were dead before the fire started.

The Kansas Highway Patrol was notified Friday by Joe Gillis of station WTOL-TV in Toledo that the four young men had been seen in Kansas.

When the pickup order was broadcast, Patrolman Glen Clopton of Pratt recalled that he had seen four youths and a car of that description in Cunningham, 17, miles east of Pratt, the day before.

A few minutes later, a Pratt policeman saw the car going west out of Pratt. Three carloads of officers quickly made the arrests without resistance. The youths were not armed.

Russians Release Prof. Barghoorn

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians have expelled Prof. Frederick C. Barghoorn of Yale today, saying they were acting because of the "personal concern" of President Kennedy.

Barghoorn was placed aboard a British airliner that took off for London.

But the Russians stuck by their claim that Barghoorn was a spy and that they had enough evidence to bring him to trial in a Soviet court.

Barghoorn was reported placed aboard the British plane barely four hours after Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko informed the U.S. Embassy's Minister Counselor, Walter Stoessel, that he was being released and expelled because of President Kennedy's concern in the case.

Although informed that Barghoorn was to be expelled, U.S. Embassy officials did not receive word of the time of his departure. It was purely by accident that two U.S. officials happened to be at the airport when a green sedan bearing Barghoorn arrived with five or six Russian plainclothesmen.

Soviet authorities indicated they had tried to notify the American embassy of Barghoorn's departure but due to some unexplained "misup" the notification never did get through.

Witnesses who saw Barghoorn get aboard the plane said he showed no signs of strain. He shook hands with one of the men he accompanied, then said, "Goodbye."

One of the men with him replied in English:

Argentina Annuls Oil Contracts

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina Friday night ignored a U.S. warning of possible serious consequences and annulled its multimillion-dollar oil contracts with eight American and four other foreign companies.

President Arturo Illia carried through with a campaign pledge and issued decrees placing foreign petroleum production and development under the control of the government-run oil agency, Yacimientos Petroliferos Fiscales (YPF). The decrees authorized YPF to use force if necessary to take over the operations.

It was not immediately known whether the companies would be fully compensated since the final annulment papers will be drawn up by Argentina's procurator general. There was no indication when he would deliver his decision.

The U.S. companies, who have estimated that they invested 397 million for drilling and exploration operations, have already indicated they will take legal action to gain compensation.

President Kennedy has maintained that the United States could not block the long-threatened annulment but that the United States would press for full compensation for the American firms.

Washington also has indicated to Argentina that the annulment could result in a reduction or cutoff of U.S. aid and private investments.

A State Department spokesman said in Washington Friday night there was no immediate U.S. comment on the Argentine action.

Economy Minister Eugenio Blanco announced the decrees which annulled all development, exploration and service contracts signed by the oil companies since May 1, 1918, when

George Alek Victim As Car Hits Bridge

Bucher, Lisbon Grid Coach, Two Others Are Hospitalized

George Alek, 28, of the Depot Rd., MC 1, Salem, a mathematics instructor at Lincoln Junior High School in Lisbon, was killed and three other Lisbon teachers were injured in a one-car mishap Friday.

The mishap occurred at 7:15 p.m. when the station wagon returning the four from a mental health workshop in East Liverpool crashed into a concrete bridge abutment on Rt. 164 (Lisbon-Salineville Rd.).

Died Almost Instantly Alek sustained a crushed chest and fractured skull and died almost instantly.

Severely injured and still in serious condition at Youngstown South Side Hospital is Edwin (Bud) Bucher, 50, of 25 Prospect St., Lisbon. Football coach for 18 years at Lisbon High School, Bucher sustained a dislocated hip and head injuries.

In fair condition at Salem City Hospital is the driver of the station wagon, Harry Riser, 36, of Poland. Riser, employed this year as science teacher at Lisbon High School, received lacerations of the face and a possible fractured ankle.

Condition Reported Fair The fourth member of the group, John Groves, 31, of 255 W. Chestnut St., Lisbon, also was admitted to Youngstown South Side Hospital with a fracture of the cheek bone, deep lacerations and contusions. Hospital authorities report his condition as fair.

Groves is a physical education teacher in the Lisbon system. Lisbon Patrolman John Vokovich and Asst. County Prosecutor John Baronzi, who questioned Riser at the hospital, said he told them he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car.

The station wagon veered to the right, struck the abutment and whipped around on the bridge, he said.

The authorities said they expect to file reckless driving charges against Riser in Lisbon mayor's court.

Finding the Way

Imagine Meeting You!

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

A few months ago we were ushered to our seats in one of Vienna's beautiful theaters. The Schoenbrunn Palace is a cherished reminder of the days of royalty, its theater a gem that sparkles with ancient glory. Here Mozart had played at than say that God exists. It's to understand that he comes into the same row, becomes your seat mate at the drama, and is involved in the total event until at last you recognize his presence and say, "Imagine meeting you here!"

A clinical analysis of much of the despair, purposeless living and insane clawing at one another that passes for life for many people is due to a sense of abandonment. They're certain that God couldn't move in where they are.

THE REAL SAINTS are those who have walked through the ordinariness of life and discovered the extraordinary presence of God. They could battle everything from enemies to apathies, because they knew that nothing could separate them from the love of God.

It's a poorly supported optimism which believes that we can go through this world without moments and events which test our mettle. It isn't even moral to live in such a time without knowing these deep involvements. Yet it's just as foolish to believe that there is no way through the tension, no way to walk with confidence, and to act as though we're abandoned.

IN DEALING with any crisis in the daily round, in making the decisions of honor, we find the real fulfillment of our faith. Then, in the most surprising ways, we can look up just as the curtain is going up on some new involvement in life and with an understandable recognition say, "Imagine meeting you here!"

WHY SHOULD WE rule out the possibility of discovering God's purpose in some surprising situation?

To have faith is to do more

CORNY, BUT IT WORKS — As a solution to the perennial shortage of grain cars at harvest time, one of Indiana's largest grain handlers is using dump-bottom cars, which are usually reserved for loads like coal and stone. Baltic Mills seals the bottoms of the cars with heavy paper gaskets, fills them with shelled corn, then covers the corn with heavy sheets of plastic, anchored down by wire cleats over the edges of the cars. Each car holds 2,500 bushels of corn.

Don't Judge Congress Yet, House Leader Albert Urges

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Democratic Leader Carl Albert says the record of the 88th Congress cannot be judged now "any more than you could say a horse race is won at the first quarter or the half."

That is Albert's answer to growing criticism of Congress as outmoded and unable to cope with the jet-powered problems of the space age.

"The problems of a Congress require a solution within a two-year period," Albert said. "No judgment can be made on a Congress except in terms of what a Congress is. The measure of this Congress will be how it faces up to the toughest peace-time issues of our time."

Congress except in terms of what a Congress is. The measure of this Congress will be how it faces up to the toughest peace-time issues of our time."

Albert conceded there is no chance of enacting by the end of the year the two top-priority administration bills, civil rights and tax revision, although the House passed the tax bill and could possibly handle the civil rights bill before the Christmas recess.

But he pointed out that the 88th Congress has another year to go and said the time to judge its place in history will be at the end of its full term. All House members are elected for two-year terms and all are up for election at the same time.

Talking with a reporter Friday, the Oklahoma Democrat said:

"There has never been a time when we have had more controversial issues. There has never been as much effort to find points of compromise which could produce meaningful results. This has been the continuing business of the leadership and the administration."

The overriding importance of the two top bills is one reason the routine appropriations bills have dragged on so long, the Democratic leader said.

He agreed that many problems coming before Congress in these times have new dimensions and must be met by new approaches.

In the field of education he cited bills providing aid to vocational education, higher education, medical and dental education, and to combat mental retardation—all either passed by the House or in the legislative process with a good chance of passage.

On "reforming" Congress, Albert said "there probably will be a need for reform. You can always improve any human institution. But I don't see that some of the changes that have been suggested would help us any."

He said some have advocated doing away with the seniority system in committees which unfailingly confers the chairmanship on the oldest living congressman.

But, he asked, what would take its place? What more stable system could be devised for arranging these things?

Artists 'Re--Do' Old Tavern

Historic Building At Hanoverton Still Popular

By LYNN BROWNE

HANOVERTON — "And then the bouncer would stack the men up in piles of three and throw them out into the street."

That's how Mrs. Ovie Cole of Hanoverton concluded one of her many anecdotes about the Spread Eagle Tavern, which was built here in 1836.

The tavern has, in the many years since those pre-Civil War days, changed in several ways, but it still has the old rustic look of days gone by.

Mrs. Cole lives in the historic old 10-room building, which was built to cater to workers on the

Sandy-Beaver Canal as well as the "carriage trade."

The building is nestled in between another old house and Lisbon St. and is one of the youngest in that block of Plymouth St.

Mrs. Cole and her husband Lee, who died earlier this year, purchased the house in 1952.

ART STUDENTS recently have been painting pictures of the indoor decor and familiar scenes. During the past summer they painted pictures of the outside and readily moved inside when Mrs. Cole extended the invitation.

The artists, all students of Mrs. Jean Calderine Brown of Minerva, usually paint for about three hours one day weekly. In the left picture above Mrs. Browne is shown with one of her paintings while at right Mrs. Paul Gaughan of Carrollton studies the staircases before adding finishing touches to her work.

Each student may attend two sessions of his choice. The sessions will run from 7:40 to 8:20 p.m. and 8:30 to 9:10 p.m.

Representatives will include Thomas Colaner, Bowling Green University; Charles E. Atkinson, Kent State University; George Weimer, Mt. Union College; Charles R. McBurner, Geneva College; Edward E. Rhine, Ohio State University; P. P. Buckanan, Youngstown University; Mrs. Helen Maguire, R. N. Youngstown Hospital School of Nursing; and Misses Jean Boyd and Sue Reesh, students at Aultman School of Nursing in Canton.

The affair was planned by guidance directors of the four county school systems—John Pape, Beaver; David Habeger, Fairfield — Waterford; Robert Carter, Southern Local, and Joseph Marra, United, assisted by Urton Anderson, county high school consultant.

County Supt. James L. McBride also will participate in the program. Thomas Leek, principal at Southern Local, will give the welcome, and Carter will introduce college representatives.

The two sessions will be followed by refreshments.

BEAVER BOARD TO MEET — Beaver Local Board of Education will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Monday to discuss the financial problems of the school district.

Administration By Deceit

Time after time during its three years in office, the Kennedy administration has been accused of using the truth loosely.

Shortly after it took office, the Bay of Pigs fiasco took place. At first, the administration denied any part of it. Later, it was revealed that the United States not only had a hand in planning the affair but had promised air support which it denied and then withheld it after the die was cast which it also denied.

Then the government denied it had anything to do with raising ransom payments for Bay of Pigs prisoners. But when the truth came out, Bobby Kennedy was one of the fund raisers.

DURING the showdown with Russia, the Kennedy administration admitted it had lied about certain events. It said it was crickets to manage news to mislead the enemy.

Latest incident has to do with a State Department security officer fired because he told the truth to a Senate subcommittee on internal security.

It was revealed the officer's associates had tapped his telephone, yet State Department official denied under oath the wire was tapped.

The Kennedy administration never officially denied it prompted the revolt in South Viet Nam; it implied the coup was a spontaneous uprising. But later it became apparent the CIA bought and paid for the whole affair.

When Mr. Kennedy was campaigning for the presidency, he made political hay out of an accusation that a missile gap existed between the United States and Russia. After election, the missile gap suddenly disappeared.

In addition, Mr. Kennedy claimed the prestige of the United States was low, based, at least in part, on the fact President Eisenhower had admitted knowing about and approving of the U-2 flights over Russia.

It seemed Mr. Kennedy felt U.S. prestige suffered because a president had the courage to be truthful.

Apparently he still thinks that truth and the presidency are incompatible.

MORE AND MORE people on both sides of the political fence are becoming aware of Kennedy administration's tendency to use the truth loosely.

We believe this may become a big factor in the 1964 presidential race. And it could be the difference between Mr. Kennedy winning and losing his race for a second term.

Moral: Think Big, Not Small

Ever since James M. Landis let his federal income tax slip his mind, all of us who sweat out that April deadline each year have been musing about . . . what should we call it?

Inequality of opprobrium.

Or in short words, one rule for big guys, another rule for little guys.

Another government insider now has been flushed out for the same kind of forgetfulness that afflicted Mr. Landis. Herbert K. May, a Treasury Department official, forgot his income tax for eight years. Then he was shifted to the State Department as deputy assistant secretary for Latin American affairs, where he continued to forget it.

For reasons undisclosed, he then remembered it and for being honest and forthright was permitted to pay up what he owned because he had made an "unsolicited confession."

What intrigues every nongovernment taxpayer about this is the thought that if it had happened to him he would have been hung up by his thumbs until he whimpered. IRS bloodhounds would have bayed on the trail. There would have been no mercy.

So much for inequality of opprobrium.

So much for having one rule for big guys and another rule for little guys.

Moral: If the idea is to slicker the government, think big, not small. Big guys get slapped on the wrist. Little guys get slapped in jail.

The only harm in a coffee break for some people is that it turns out to be a cigarette break.

At last we can look forward to something going down come snow days—kids coasting.

Reciprocity

By Truman Twill

The cock pheasants I have been slowing down for as they strutted across the road and the rabbits that have been racing me up and down the lane on my goings and comings now are in real danger. Hunting season is open again.

I am not a hunter. During the dozen-odd years I have lived on the far outskirts of suburbia, I have not been tempted to take up hunting. Pheasants are common and rabbits are numerous. But I would not get any pleasure out of killing anything for the sport of blasting it out of it.

My compunctions on this score are not shared universally.

I am tolerant of hunters. They so obviously enjoy what they are doing that I do not even bar them from hunting on our place, because the birds and animals we see in the fields are not indigenous. They live in the area in general; they are not ours.

YET EACH YEAR I think about reciprocity.

There should be a hunting season in town for ruralites — an exchange program.

In return for tying up our dogs, penning up our livestock and having our fences destroyed and gates left open by hunters from town who patrol the countryside in search of fresh meat they will have trouble giving away, townfolk should invite us ruralites to make ourselves at home in their environs once a year, say in midsummer.

All we want the right to do is come to town with our guns loaded and our dogs baying, park our cars in the drive-ways, let the dogs out and away we go!

We would barge through the hedges, take our ease on the patios, rattle buckshot off the view windows, drive penned-up and tied-up dogs out of their minds, scare the kids out of half a year's growth and never go home empty-handed.

We wouldn't get there early in the morning, having other things to do, so we would pay our visits in the early evening, in time for dinner.

WE'D WEAR hunting suits and have our licenses prominently displayed. We'd promise to be careful.

If someone chose not to have us trespass on his property, he would have to put up signs every few feet; otherwise we'd take it for granted he welcomed trespassers.

We would ask permission wherever we thought it was necessary. But if no trouble was in sight, we'd walk through the owner's flower beds and fire at everything that moved without formality. We would manage not to see No Trespassing signs on places where we wanted to be, meaning the choicest spots.

Each year I think about this. If 10,000 people go to the country with firearms at the ready and the urge to kill pulsating in their minds, each fall, how about letting just 100 of us little old ruralites repay the visit each summer, shouting and shooting having fun in the fine old frontier way?

GOP Chiefs Woo Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL

There are Republicans in labor's high command — and one of them is ready to step out front and prove it, whether the lightning strikes him or not.

The venture-some leader who is all set to prove to the Kennedys that all is not solid on the labor front is Lee Minton, 52-year-old

Lee Minton, an AFL-CIO national vice president. He is one of the younger militants among the 1,200 labor chiefs who was in New York City for the final AF CIO convention before the 194 presidential election.

Lee Minton has agreed to lead and build a National Independent Labor Committee for Nelson A. Rockefeller. Since this move is made this early, it obviously reflects the New York governor's willingness to form a labor coalition to help him battle Barry Goldwater in the primaries — especially in New Hampshire.

Lee Minton, a Philadelphian who is president of the Glass Bottle Blowers Association, pledged his support to Mr. Rockefeller at a private and still unpublished three-hour luncheon on Oct. 29.

MINTON, who has been a Republican, let it be known some weeks ago that he was ready to work for Rockefeller's nomination. Emissaries brought the two men together in a closed-door session inside the private dining room of an apartment in the Radio City Music Hall.

With them were the governor's knowledgeable labor adviser, Victor Borella, who officially is executive vice president of Rockefeller Center and James Herkenham, a mutual friend of the other three.

Mr. Herkenham is a quiet-spoken, self-effacing chap, extremely active in national labor circles.

There was considerable discussion of labor's role in a mass production society. And the governor spoke of his opposition to "right to work laws" which, in effect, ban the union shop and the dues checkoff in 20 states now.

Minton pledged his support but said that he wanted first to inform George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO. Then Minton said he would launch his committee publicly some time during or right after the national labor convention.

THE STRATEGY will first be to set up a national labor headquarters in New York City — after a national committee is organized from among the labor men at the convention. Then regional headquarters are to be set up across the country. These headquarters will then attempt to recruit other labor men and create sectional labor committees for Rockefeller.

The operation is to be strictly labor. Literature is to be aimed solely at unionists. Meetings with the governor are to be set up where possible — including confidential talks between Rockefeller and those national labor men who wish to confer with him.

The governor's speeches and statements are to be processed by the committee for the entire labor press. The emphasis will be on stirring a national labor groundswell for Rockefeller as soon as possible.

MEANWHILE, Sen. Barry Goldwater is not giving the impression of a man willing to concede that labor's rank and file is opposed to him. Twice now — in New York and in Chicago — in the past few weeks he has hammered at President Kennedy's labor policy.

Sen. Goldwater's thesis is that labor and its leadership, as well as businessmen, have lost much freedom under the New Frontier.

I have just returned from Phoenix, where the Goldwater-for-President headquarters reports a considerable rank and file unionist interest in the senator's campaign.

For example, there is a Mexican-American drive for Goldwater, under the banner of "Arriba con Barry" (Up with Barry) led by a Mexican-American truck driver. Letters have come in from construction trades craftsmen giving their local union numbers. This is true at the senator's Washington office as well.

REPUBLICAN drives among labor's second echelon leadership and rank and file are not as futile as they appear at first. There is considerable disaffection for the Kennedys in the construction and maritime trade unions.

Many of these unions have been with the Republicans in past years. This is especially true of the 3 million member construction trades bloc whose 400 leaders have been applauding jibes at and criticism of the Kennedy administration during the many conferences and smaller conventions which were the preliminaries to the huge national gathering.

There is no doubt that the national AFL-CIO will enthusiastically endorse John Kennedy.

But there also is no doubt that for the first time in several years there are labor men who are willing to speak out against Mr. Kennedy and even organize to fight against his re-election.

It seems to be more than a coincidence that the Red Chinese are starting trouble in Korea and the war in South Vietnam Nam is continuing to require the presence of American military forces in larger and larger numbers.

ALL THIS indicates, in spite of all the talk of peaceful relations between the two countries that the sources of friction have by no means been diminished.

Huge sums are being spent for military purposes, and while it is considered probable that the Soviets would not venture now to make a surprise attack with nuclear weapons, the idea of a limited war of some kind in some part of the world — which would possibly reach the proportions of the Korean conflict — is not ruled out as impossible.

Back Through the Years

(From The News Files)

10 YEARS AGO — The Salem Board of Education last night gave the teachers a $400 "across the board" raise.

Mayor Harry Vincent fined two truck drivers this morning for driving overloaded vehicles.

25 YEARS AGO — Postmaster Earl Beardmore said today that he expects to hire more clerks and mail carriers during the holiday season.

Members of the Salem High School football squad will be honored Monday at a banquet at the Memorial Building.

35 YEARS AGO — Sunday will be observed as Poll Day at the Presbyterian Church with the entire church roll called.

"Pals First" is the name of the play which the seniors at Salem High School will present Dec. 13 and 14. The cast is being picked currently.

Today In History

Today is Saturday, Nov. 16, the 320th day of 1963. There are 45 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1933, the United States and the Soviet Union established diplomatic relations.

On this date: In 1776, the British captured Ft. Washington the Hudson River and took 2,000 prisoners.

In 1869 the Suez Canal was opened.

In 1944, Gen. Douglas MacArthur assumed personal command of Allied operations against Japanese bases at Buna and Gona in the Pacific during World War II.

In 1960, American movie star Clark Gable died at the age of 59.

Ten years ago—The Western Big Three charged that nothing would be solved by Russian attempts to link West European problems with those in Korea and other Far East areas.

Five years ago — The AFL-CIO's Economic Policy Committee declared that productivity increases were keeping unemployment high while pushing corporate profits to record levels.

Ann Landers Answers

Dear Ann Landers: You were very helpful to me four years ago when I wrote about my problem. At that time I had just lost all my teeth and wanted to know if I should enter college in spite of the fact that a gum deformity made it almost impossible to wear dentures. You said to go, and I took your advice. It worked out well.

My present problem is that I am now divorced from an irresponsible no good I foolishly married while a junior in college. I, like so many other young idiots, thought I could reform him. I tried a reconciliation three times, without success.

During the last reconciliation I became pregnant. I filed suit for divorce without knowing my condition and decided to go through with it. I'm now a graduate student and am dating some interesting young men. They know all about me and my condition.

I'm in my eighth month of pregnancy and my favorite boy friend wants me to go to a formal dinner-dance in a couple of weeks. I feel fine and would like to go if you think it would be proper. Please advise.—UNDECIDED.

Dear Undecided: Any girl who is toothless and in her eighth month and can still get dates doesn't need any advice from anybody. You're doing fine. Good luck.

Unwelcome Guests

Dear Ann: Cheers and congratulations to the writer who posted on his door the message: "If you are uninvited and unexpected, you are also unwelcome." I wish I had the nerve to do it.

I'm a writer who works at home, too. But I somehow found that if you have a home office no one really believes you are working. Creative writing can be pure torture. A writer is working even when he is staring into space—trying to snag that elusive idea or that phrase that says it best.

Heaven knows how many times I've been zinging away at my typewriter at long last—after several days of stop-and-go attempts—only to be dropped in on by friends who say they can stay only 15 minutes. Two hours later they still are hanging around making with the small talk while I silently scream myself to death.

By the time they leave I'm exhausted and furious and The Great Idea has fled.

If I kept a gun in the house I'm sure one day I would be hanged for murder.—SITTING DUCK.

Dear Ducky: Feeling as you do, it's just as well you have no gun. But if there were 12 writers on the jury, you'd be found not guilty.

Precocious Teener

Dear Ann: I'm only 14 but I know what I'm talking about. That 18-year-old girl who is scared to death that her father will remarry is just too selfish for words.

My father and mother were divorced six years ago. My mother was mentally disturbed and impossible to live with. The court awarded me to my father.

Three years ago my father remarried. He never has been so happy and the same goes for me. When I think of the difference in our lives it is like a fairy tale come true.

I'll guarantee you that when that 18-year-old girl falls in love and wants to get married she won't give a second thought to whether her dad is lonely or not—she'll leave. Now that he shows signs of wanting to make a new life for himself she should encourage him to go ahead.

I'm glad I did and I was only 11 at that time.—MISS EXPERIENCE.

Dear Miss: You've got a smart head on those young shoulders. Thank you for sharing wisdom far beyond your years.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Court To Rule In Domer Case

Murder Charge Dismissal Asked

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A panel of three Stark County Common Pleas Judges hearing the murder trial of Robert K. Domer is expected to rule on three defense motions—including one asking that the first-degree murder charges against Domer be dismissed—when the trial resumes Monday.

The motions were filed by Domer's attorneys — Harry W. Schmuck of Canton and Sherlock H. Evans of Massillon—after prosecutor Norman J. Putman rested the state's case Friday morning.

Domer, 44, a former Canton mortgage investment broker, is charged with two counts of murder in the death of Howard F. Riddle, whose charred body was found in Domer's burning automobile April 23 along the Stark-Wayne County line west of Massillon.

The state contends that Riddle, a 54-year-old Akron fruit peddler, was killed to fake Domer's accidental death so that his family could collect an estimated $238,000 in insurance.

Evans asked that Judges George N. Graham, John Rossetti and Paul G. Weber consider the motions in the order in which they are presented.

The first asked that a charge of premeditated murder be dismissed and the second requested dismissal of the charge alleging abduction resulting in death.

Evans then asked that if the court overruled the first two motions that it order the prosecutor to decide on which of the two counts Domer should be tried first, thus starting all over again.

Domer has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to both charges.

Evans asserted during oral arguments that the state had failed to show Domer's presence at the scene where his burning car was found. He also charged that the court had permitted improper hearsay evidence in the case and that the two indictments were inconsistent, making them void.

FIRE CHIEF CHARGED
CINCINNATI (AP) — Fire Chief Dan Vogel has been charged with reckless driving as the result of crashing into a utility pole on his way home Thursday night.

The fire chief was cited Friday after police said the car left 240 feet of skid marks indicating it had gone around a curve at about 50 miles per hour. Vogel also was accused of trying to cover up the accident by instructing a life squad not to tell anyone where he was. He suffered cuts and bruises and the city-owned car he drove was demolished.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: It's turkey-time again:

After cooking turkey many ways, and using many recipes, I am going to tell you what I thought was "the perfect turkey." Not only was it less trouble but also it was the most beautiful. I steamed it as it baked by pouring a cup of water in the body cavity. This keeps the meat juicy.

If you like white meat, a minimum weight for the turkey should be about 20 pounds. If you can possibly afford it, buy a broad-breasted turkey. The better quality is worth the difference in price. Also, a turkey around 20 pounds is a better buy—you are buying more meat in proportion to the bone structure. In "broad-breasted turkeys" (the label will tell you if they are) you have more white meat. Leftovers may be frozen for later use.

Another thing that might interest you is... don't salt your turkey before cooking it. This will shock most of you who are in the habit of rubbing it with salt inside or out, but, believe me, it is better if you don't.

A 20-POUND frozen turkey takes at least three days to thaw properly in the refrigerator. It may be left over night on the drainboard if necessary, but too-fast thawing causes it to lose its good juices and makes the meat tough.

Remove pin feathers on thawed turkey with tweezers. Remove giblets. Carefully wash turkey inside and out with cold water. Fold skin of neck under the back and fasten with toothpicks if you haven't any metal skewers. Tie the ends of the legs with a string and knot it. Fold tail up into the cavity of the bird and fasten. Fold wings under the back with tips touching.

Remove broiler rack from bottom of oven and cover it with heavy quilted foil. Use three long strips in center of rack and place turkey in the middle of this. Pour one cup of water into the cavity of an 18 to 20 pound bird. This will provide the steam as the bird roasts.

TAKE A BROWN PAPER grocery sack and tear a round piece big enough to cover the top of the bird. Rub the sack with lots of yellow shortening (this makes the bird golden brown) or another unsalted fat of your choice. Place greased side of sack "down" on the breast of the bird and wrap the whole turkey with the six ends of the strips of foil—making sure they overlap one another.

Place in 300 degree oven, for at least 5 hours for a 20-pound bird. (Reduce cooking time and water for smaller birds.)

At the end of the cooking time open the foil, remove the brown paper bag, and let the steam and the heat escape. Move the tip of the leg with your fingers. If it moves easily, the bird is about ready to eat. But not quite.

Dip a paper napkin or towel into the drippings in the bottom of the pan and carefully wipe the turkey with it until all the bird is oiled. If you like a dry, brown turkey, roast uncovered another 15 minutes.

Sprinkle the entire bird lightly with paprika until it turns a golden color. Place turkey on a platter when slightly cook (it cuts better) and garnish with lots of parsley, radishes and crisp carrot curls.

MAKE CORNBREAD dressing with part of the turkey drippings and cook separately on cookie sheet. Use part of the drippings for giblet gravy made with the giblets which you have boiled separately.

Served with creamy mashed potatoes, green peas, celery hearts, cranberry sauce and hot biscuits.

for you to do is sit back and watch it disappear. Then wash the dishes.

Watch for my original southern cornbread dressing recipe which will appear in the column tomorrow.

Addresses Bar Meeting In Cleveland

Bob Kennedy Urges Passage Of Criminal Justice Bill

CLEVELAND (AP)—Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy says that criminal justice has become "the neglected stepchild of legal practice" in modern times.

Addressing the Great Lakes Regional meeting of the American Bar Association Friday night, Kennedy devoted most of his speech to the problem of providing an adequate defense for defendants unable to hire legal counsel and to racketeers who often go free because they are able to hire the best lawyers.

These are issues, he said, that involve "two different kinds of crime—or at least two different kinds of defendant—but they are alike in that both tend to be obscured under the draft of public apathy. And both concern a fundamental principle of democracy—the principle that rich and poor are equal in the eyes of the law."

Dog Saved From Death by Court Getting Feeble

KENTON, Ohio (AP)—Annie, Kenton's famed St. Bernard who lived in the executioner's shadow for 15 months in 1958, is back there again.

But this time, old age is the villain.

Six years ago, she was condemned to death on a sheep killing charge. Her life was spared then by the Third District Court of Appeals in Lima.

"She's 10 years old now and getting feeble," says Mrs. Johanna Perkins. She led the successful battle for the dog's life in the absence of her son. He was the dog's owner and was in Germany in the Army at the time.

He is home now, but living in Marion, so Annie has remained in her Kenton home.

Canine authorities agree that few dogs of Annie's breed live beyond 10 years.

Annie's case attracted nationwide attention. She was picked up in February 1957 and charged with killing six sheep on a farm west of Kenton. Hardin County Common Pleas Court Judge Arthur D. Tudor denied an injunction requested by Mrs. Perkins and ruled the dog should be destroyed.

The case was carried to the appeals court. Mrs. Perkins argued it was a case of mistaken identity. She claimed Annie was chained in the backyard of her home in Dunkirk.

For 15 months, Annie stayed in a kennel pen while the courts mulled her case. At last the verdict came in. Annie was free. Mrs. Perkins doesn't want Annie photographed in the dog's old age.

JUVENILE CENTER CLOSED

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—The Butler County Juvenile Detention Center has been closed for the rest of the year due to lack of funds.

Domestic Relations Judge David Black said Friday the county commissioners have refused to appropriate money to pay two counselors who were hired early this year to replace counselors who quit in 1962. The commissioners said they were concerned, but felt all county agencies had to operate within their budgets.

Bats can avoid flying into obstacles in the dark because they can hear echoes of the sounds as they bounce off objects. These creatures can hear high-pitched sound waves of about 50,000 vibrations per second.

Remove pin feathers on thawed turkey with tweezers. Remove giblets. Carefully wash turkey inside and out with cold water. Fold skin of neck under the back and fasten with toothpicks if you haven't any metal skewers. Tie the ends of the legs with a string and knot it. Fold tail up into the cavity of the bird and fasten. Fold wings under the back with tips touching.

Remove broiler rack from bottom of oven and cover it with heavy quilted foil. Use three long strips in center of rack and place turkey in the middle of this. Pour one cup of water into the cavity of an 18 to 20 pound bird. This will provide the steam as the bird roasts.

At the end of the cooking time open the foil, remove the brown paper bag, and let the steam and the heat escape. Move the tip of the leg with your fingers. If it moves easily, the bird is about ready to eat. But not quite.

Dip a paper napkin or towel into the drippings in the bottom of the pan and carefully wipe the turkey with it until all the bird is oiled. If you like a dry, brown turkey, roast uncovered another 15 minutes.

Sprinkle the entire bird lightly with paprika until it turns a golden color. Place turkey on a platter when slightly cook (it cuts better) and garnish with lots of parsley, radishes and crisp carrot curls.

MAKE CORNBREAD dressing with part of the turkey drippings and cook separately on cookie sheet. Use part of the drippings for giblet gravy made with the giblets which you have boiled separately.

Served with creamy mashed potatoes, green peas, celery hearts, cranberry sauce and hot biscuits.

Naturally all this is served to hungry people who have smelled the aroma for hours and are starving! All that is left

"RAISING" CHILDREN BY THE BOOK

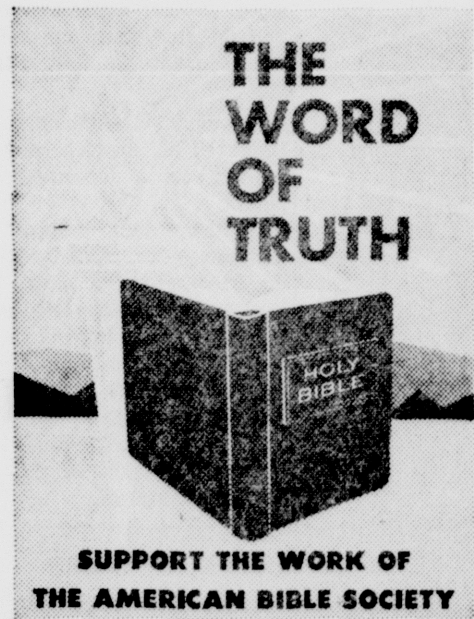

We have a choice in America... a choice denied millions who live under godless communism.

Here is a man who is exercising that choice!

He believes that children growing up in the free world ought to know the Author of Liberty. He wants his son and daughter to cherish and embrace the spiritual insights God has given man.

This father introduced his children to the Bible when they were very young. Today the Book of the Ages is their friend. Tomorrow it will be their guide through the frightening age to which they have been born.

The American Bible Society — supported by earnest Christian citizens and the churches they attend — enables millions of families around the globe to share our heritage of Truth with this new generation on whose spiritual fibre rests the hope of the world.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH

Another new stamp in the picturesque "Old Berlin Series" has been issued by West Germany, reports the World-Wide Philatelic Agency. The stamp is a 60 pfennig, carmine color (Halle Gate) as it looked in 1880.

Hallesches Tor is situated in the center of Berlin. The Landwehr Canal, a branch of the River Spree, flows near the entrance. Many of Berlin's famous streets converge at Hallesches Tor, including the noted Friedrichstrasse whose modern end concludes with the Brandenburg Gate, where the Communists have constructed the Berlin Wall. The design of the stamp was taken from a sketch by a professor at the Technical University in Berlin.

COLOMBIA has issued a new air mail stamp honoring the 100th anniversary of the city of Pereira in the state of Caldas. The design shows the equestrian statue of Gen. Simon Bolivar. The city was founded Aug. 30, 1863, and now has a population of 184,000. It is an important ant city in Colombia's coffee industry.

THE REPUBLIC OF KOREA has issued two new stamps honoring its economic development as part of its five-year plan. One stamp depicts a coal miner, equipment and a coal car, the other stamp shows a cement plant and a bag of cement. The five-year program runs from 1962 through 1966 and postal officials in Seoul have advised that two stamps will be issued each year for this economic development program.

WEST GERMANY has announced the issuance of another stamp in the old Berlin series, reports the World-Wide Philatelic Agency. The new stamp is a 50 pfennig which shows Bridge as it looked in 1830. Also announced by the Republic of Germany was the release of its "Europa 1963" set of two which marks the eighth consecutive year this country has issued stamps to promote this United Europe project.

MARKED FOR BIKES HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP)—Big blue and white "Bicycle Safety Route" signs have been set up along the quiet roads and streets of this community south of Miami. They warn motorists to watch out for bikers and give children safe paths to follow to school and elsewhere.

Spiders are able to see in eight directions at once because most species have eight single-lens eyes, symmetrically spaced, but, though the spider is sensitive to movement and light, it is near-sighted.

Television's Unhappy Millionaires:

Riches, Renown and Reversals--- The Three R's of TV Celebrities

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Eyes strained after years of television viewing? Jittery this morning because of a late, late show? Don't complain, you television fans. You're lucky.

Television stars are the ones who really have the headaches. Never before in show business have so many suddenly become so rich, so famous—and so unhappy.

Call it the day of the unhappy television millionaires.

The hectic, high-tension demands of television blended with the highly emotional natures of talented people is the foundation for the unhappiness. Television's demands are insatiable, but as capricious as a roulette wheel.

TO BE LIKED is the goal of the entertainer. To be versatile is the actor's dream. To be "wanted" means even more than money to both.

In television's shower of gold, however, actors and entertainers alike are facing hurdles new to the world of show business.

A career can be made and unmade in as short a time as 13 weeks. Television popularity rating systems still dictate life and death for the young hopeful or the old pro. The sudden end of a show because of low rating or a sponsor's change of mind breeds bitterness and unhappiness.

For the entertainer who becomes a hit there is the risk of overexposure killing off a career years in the making.

It happened to Milton Berle and Sid Caesar, once the kingpins of the little screen. Today they are rich, but unhappy. Berle craves straight dramatic roles and Sid hopes a new movie will renew his once bright career.

AS A SPECTATOR to the rise and fall of Berle and Caesar on television, Danny Kaye resisted weekly show offers until this season. "How long will it last?" is a question Danny is already asking himself.

Judy Garland's desire to be liked on her new show has led to a series of backstage flare-ups which have brought changes in production and personnel.

When the "Burns & Allen Show" faded from the air,

BALL: Success and a broken marriage.

HUTTON: Afterward, worries about health.

BURR: How to step down from the stand.

BOONE: Puts his six-shooters away.

Gracie went into retirement. But the lure of the spotlight was too much for George. He doesn't need the money, but today he is on the road with a night club singing act.

With more money than he'll ever need, a pouting Jack Benny is leaving CBS because of the time slot given his show. He'll be on NBC next season.

FOR THE ACTOR, television blends riches with type casting so indelible that stars lose personal identity in the characters they play—a fate they look upon as worse than death.

For instance, seven years as the Paladin of "Have Gun, Will Travel" made Richard Boone a millionaire, gave him the chance to retire and enjoy the easy life. But he's back this season, working harder than ever on "The Richard Boone Show."

"Gunsmoke" put Dennis Weaver in the big money. But being typed as the limping Chester has turned his career into miserable frustration.

In attempting to escape from Dodge City, Weaver has made three bids for a series of his own far from the West. He has appeared, in white tie and tails, as a singer on a television variety show.

He's still playing Chester. He's rich, but unhappy and bitter.

Old Walter Brennan, a movie Oscar winner way back in 1936 became a millionaire for the second time via "The Real McCoys." Gone fishing now? Nope, returns to home screens next season in a new series in which he plays a business tycoon.

"I'd be miserable in retirement," he says, and he's probably right. He's the essence of unhappiness when he's not working.

A rich man today, Raymond Burr is worried about the image of "Perry Mason" haunting his acting career when the series ends—and all series eventually do, you know. The quick end of the "Betty Hutton Show" left the onetime Hollywood star in such an emotional state that friends worried about her health.

AT THE MORE PERSONAL level, television's long working hours and nervous strain cost Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz their marriage. Jim Arness' marriage ended in a legal separation. His "Gunsmoke" fame and fortune were blamed.

The backstage television picture is not all unhappiness, of course. Its rich rewards have favored many, tempering their ambitions. But for many others, television breeds unhappiness in its pressures, its insatiable demands, its rating wars with top shows opposite one another, its overexposure, its type casting and, above all, in its frequent instability based on the whims of sponsors and the second-guessing of advertising agents.

We, the Women

Vocation For Second Pay

The United States is rapidly becoming a double pay check country. It takes both a husband and wife working to support a family under our present economic set-up," says Mrs. Estler Peterson, director of the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

That being the case, why aren't we doing more to encourage our daughters as well as our sons to prepare themselves through education for the kind of work they like and have a talent for?

We don't, of course. It seems all-important to parents for a son to prepare himself to earn a living at work he will find satisfying.

But a daughter? With a daughter parents just assume that she will marry when she is through school and so it doesn't matter whether or not she is adequately prepared to earn a living when she finishes her education.

She probably will marry. But in a "double pay check country" what difference does that make? If she is going to have to work after marriage, she ought to be trained for work she will enjoy, instead of having to take anything she can get.

A college dean tells me she has tried for years to convince the girls she counsels that since it is very likely they will have to earn a pay check for years—even if they marry—they ought to give serious thought while in college to how they are going to earn the pay check.

But since they haven't heard this kind of talk at home, they are hard to convince.

They will continue to be, too, until their parents begin to take the attitude that choosing the right career is important for daughters as well as for sons. They are doing their daughters an injustice if they let them think that marriage will automatically free them from the necessity of earning a living.

Special Telephones for Special Places

Have you ever wished that you could have the telephone nearer to your work at home? The busy housewife in her kitchen so often finds that the telephone rings when she is engaged with some task that requires her undivided attention. Perhaps she is in a hurry to contact some tradesman or call a friend or relative but "just can't leave her work." The answer is a "hang-up or wall type handset, out of the way of her work, and yet available for her use when it is needed.

The man of the house finds a hang-up type telephone a convenience beside his work bench, in the garage or in his garden house. The telephone is an ever present means of communication. We owe it to ourselves to arrange the telephones in our home so that they are available for use whenever desired.

Call our Business Office or "drop in" and discuss your telephone problems with us. You will find the answers to be surprisingly inexpensive.

Packers Battle Bears For Division Lead Sunday

6 Other NFL Games On Tap New York Is Home To San Francisco

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers meet Sunday in an effort to break their first-place tie in the Western Division of the National Football League.

The big game has been given the buildup of a heavyweight title fight, and the winner is considered a good bet to wrap up the divisional championship.

The Bears-Packers clash has shoved into the background Sunday's six other NFL games. St. Louis is at Cleveland and San Francisco is at New York with the Browns and the Giants favored to win and remain tied for the Eastern Division lead. In the other games Pittsburgh is at Washington, Baltimore at Minnesota, Los Angeles at Detroit and Philadelphia at Dallas.

In the rival American League the top Sunday game is at Buffalo where the Bills try for their fourth straight against the San Diego Chargers. Kansas City is at Boston and New York at Denver in other AFL tilts.

Green Bay is out to avenge a 10-3 season opening loss before starting a string of eight straight victories. The Bears, having lost only to San Francisco, hope to prove their earlier triumph over the Packers was no fluke.

Both teams have held secret practices, shrouded in mystery. But the only surprise for the standing-room-only crowd, which should hit 50,000, will be if either team strays from its basic patterns.

The Packers are favored by four points. The weather is expected to be cloudy and cool with a chance of showers.

Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi has selected John Roach to start at quarterback, although Bart Starr's injured hand has healed. Roach has directed the Packers to three victories since Starr's injury.

Jim Taylor and Tom Moore, two of the league's top runners, will lead Green Bay's ground attack, and if the Packers need a field goal it will have to come off the foot of Jerry Kramer.

The Bears don't have any runners in the class of Taylor and Moore and will rely on the passing and generalship of quarterback Bill Wade. Rick Casares and Joe Marconi will split the fullback duties, but Coach George Halas will not say whether it will be Ronnie Bull or Willie Galimore at left halfback.

The Bears' big forte is defense, which in six of nine games has held the opposition to one touchdown or less. In three of the games the opposition, including Green Bay, failed to score a touchdown.

Al Balding's 136 Leads Mexico Open

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Toronto's lanky Al Balding carried a two-stroke lead and tank of oxygen into today's third round of the Mexico Open Golf Tournament.

Balding, who complained of feeling groggy at times because of the mile-and-a-half high altitude of the La Hacienda course, sniffed oxygen from time to time en route to his three-under-par second round 69 Friday.

That gave him a 36-hole total of 136 and gave him a two-stroke lead over Mexican Juan Neri, who shared the lead at the end of the first round.

Balding, the Canadian champion who had a first round 67, put together three birdies on the front nine, then settled down to par the incoming half of the 7,622-yard, par 72 layout.

A number of the other touring pros found the course to their liking and stayed well within striking range. Bob Gajda of Detroit, Ernie Vossler of Oklahoma City and Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., all shot second-round 69s. Gajda had a 139 going into today's round, Vossler and Sanders 140 each.

Yanks Sign Hurler Whitey Ford As Pitching Coach For $60,000

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The complaint for years against Whitey Ford has been that he's too selfish. The brainy New York Yankee southpaw refuses to reveal any of his pitching secrets.

The time finally has come for baseball's most successful pitcher to impart some of his knowledge. As the new pitching coach of the Yankees, it will be his duty to work with and help younger members of the staff in the hope that some of his mound brilliance rubs off on them.

Ford, dubbed "Chairman of the Board," by catcher Elston Howard, gained his new title Friday. Whitey was given a "substantial" raise which boosted his dual-role salary to a whopping $60,000. He replaces Johnny Sain, who was given his unconditional release because of a disagreement on salary terms.

"We asked Sain to return at the same salary as last year," explained General Manager Ralph Houk. "He demanded an increase which we felt was unreasonable."

Sain, who had been Houk's pitching coach from the time Ralph succeeded Casey Stengel as manager in the winter of 1960, acknowledge he had asked for a $2,500 a year raise on a two-year contract.

Ford will continue to take his regular turn on the mound. He thinks he can do it successfully for two or three more years.

"I had a poor season in 1960," said the 35-year-old pitching wonder. "And I thought then I was near the end of my career. But my arm has felt fine the last three years and I think I can keep winning for a while yet."

Ford posted a 24-7 record in 1963, tops in the American League. He pitched the most innings, 269 2-3, and tied with teammate Ralph Terry for the most starts, 37. It was his second 20-plus game winning season. His overall record is 199-78 for a .718 percentage, tops in major league history for a pitcher with 100 or more victories.

Ford didn't think his new duties would prove too much of a burden on his pitching.

"If I thought so, I wouldn't have accepted," he said. "Besides, I believe a pitching coach's main work is down in spring training."

Ford's appointment rounds out the four-man coaching staff. Jimmy Gleeson was signed as first base coach last Wednesday and holdover coaches Frank Crosetti and Jim Hegan have returned signed contracts.

Ford was the second coach ceded Houk as manager three signed by Berra since he succeeded Yogi's choice.

Lucci hurt his knee during the victory over the Giants in New York but it appears to be sound again.

Motorcycle Club Sets Racing Card Sunday

Those who wonder what cyclists do in the winter time to stay active can go out Sunday to the Western Reserve Club grounds on Middletown Road. They have a two and a half mile race course laid out on their 75-acre club grounds, which consists of hills, valleys, creek crossings and all types of terrain.

The race will be of a marathon type, 50 miles or a two and half hour time limit.

A large entry of riders from Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York is expected.

Food and refreshments will be served in the clubhouse. There will also be good observation points for the spectators closeby.

Berline Scores 3 Touchdowns

Niles Makes Strong Bid For State Football Title, Blanks Warren 36-0

By MARK MILLER
Niles, only nine points behind Massillon in Tuesday's AP poll, made a tremendous bid for state championship honors by knocking off Warren, 36-0, before 15,000 fans at Harding Stadium Friday night.

For coach Tony Mason's juggernaut, it was the 47th straight and established the Red Dragons with the second longest winning streak in the history of high school football. Massillon with 52 wins without a loss has the all-time mark.

Only a 0-0 tie with a tough Cincinnati Roger Bacon spoiled the 1961 state champs (Niles) from a perfect slate. Massillon trimmed Harding 22-8 earlier in the campaign.

So tough were the Red Dragons defensively the first half, that Warren was able only to pick up five yards, and didn't even make a first down.

EFRAM C. ELLISON, a 199-lb. junior, who Mason rates as tough a fullback as you'll find anywhere in the state, scored on a 39-yard run early in the first period to give Niles a 6-0 lead.

The Dragons, who were favored, disappointed the Warren fans with the ease in which they dominated the contest. Niles took the opening kickoff and marched down the field in six plays for the initial TD.

Halfback Jim Berline upped the margin to 12-0 late in the first frame, when he caught a 59-yard touchdown pass from Bill Gales. It was the first of three TD's from the combination.

Mel Dixon, another speedster for Niles, scored from six yards out and the Dragons took a 20-0 lead to the dressing room at intermission.

Harding, which finished the campaign with a 6-4 record, played a better ball game the second half. The Panthers picked up seven first downs during the last two periods, most of them through the air.

THE PANTHERS COMPLETED six of 18 aerials for 87 yards, but could only get 14 yards on the ground. The superior Niles unit ramblled for 163 yards rushing and 184 through the air.

There was no scoring in the third session. In the final frame, Gales connected with Berline on touchdown passes of 11 and 18 yards. The scores came three minutes apart.

Dixon intercepted a Panthers' aerial to set up the first TD on his 26 and returned the pigskin to the Warren 40. Gales pitched a 38-yard aerial to Phil Deperro to the losers' 19. Two plays later he threw to Berline for the touchdown.

THE FINAL TALLY was set up, when Harding punter Sam Pagano who had been booting beautifully, got off a poor kick which gave Niles the pigskin on the Panthers' 18.

On the first play from scrimmage a pass from Gales to Berline covered the distance for the final touchdown of the game.

The clash revived one of the state's most bitter rivalries following a layoff of 15 years.

New Coach Billy Reay May Make Difference

This May Be The Year For Chicago Black Hawks To Garner NHL Title

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer
This may finally be the season the mercurial Chicago Black Hawks scamper off with all the prizes in the National Hockey League.

A single new ingredient may turn the trick.

He is new coach Billy Reay, who replaced Rudy Pilous last spring after the potentially great Hawks staggered home in second place and then collapsed in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Pilous, who lifted the Hawks from league doormats to contenders in 5½ years, got the axe from boss Jim Norris reportedly because he had difficulty in getting along with his players.

On paper, the Black Hawks are still the best.

They have the game's best goal tender in Glenn Hall, winner of last season's Vezina Trophy with five shutouts and a 2.51 goal-per-game average.

THEY HAVE ONE OF the NHL's two top defense corps, headed by all-stars Pierre Pilote and Elmer (Moose) Vasko and backed up by Al McNeil and sophomore Wayne Hillman.

Up front, they have two young super stars in Bobby Hull, 24, and Czech-born Stan Mikita, 23, and anchorman on two of the league's highest scoring lines. Scoring was down last year but the potential remains.

It appears that all the Hawks need to win their first NHL title and go on to the Stanley Cup is a coach who can get them clicking on all cylinders.

The Toronto Maple Leafs, last season's league and cup champions, may at last have to contend with a problem that has been predicted for them for years—old age in key spots.

THE LEAFS' DEFENSE is perhaps the league's strongest with all-stars Carl Brewer and Tim Horton supported by Bobby Baun and Kent Douglas, the 1962-63 rookie of the year.

(Brewer may miss the first three months of the season with a slow-mending broken arm.)

Top scorers Frank Mahovlich and Dave Keon are back but much of the Leafs' punch may depend on two aging centers, George Armstrong, 33, and Red Kelley, 36.

Once again Kelly will divide his time between the ice of Maple Leaf Gardens and the halls of Parliament in Ottawa where he is a Liberal member from a Toronto riding.

GLENN HALL

Age also may hurt the Leafs in goal. Johnny Bower turns 39 in November, or so the record book says. His backstop, Don Simmons, couldn't make the grade with the lowly Boston Bruins a few years back.

The Montreal Canadiens, once the Yankees of hockey, have gaping holes in their defense. Veteran Tom Johnson was dealt to Boston and Lou Fontinato is through with a serious neck injury.

THAT LEAVES VETERANS Jean Guy Talbot and J. C. Gauthier and a passel of rookies to man the blue line for the faltering Habs.

They also lost a 20-goal scorer when Dickie Moore retired but they should still have a wealth of goals among Henri Richard, Jean Beliveau, Claude Provost, Gilles Tremblay and Bernie Geoffrion.

Canadiens nets are tended by Lorne (Gump) Worsley, obtained from New York for goalie Jacques Plante. Worsley knows what its like to play behind a weak defense.

Like Toronto, the Detroit Red Wings may run aground on age.

Matchless Gordie Howe, the league's top scorer (86 points) and most valuable player last seasons is 35. Key defenseman Bill Gadsby is 36. Goalie Terry Sawchuk turns 34 in December.

On the credit side, Howe appears ready to go on forever. He began his 18th season in the NHL only four goals behind Maurice (Rocket) Richard's lifetime mark of 544.

NEW YORK'S RANGERS will try to better a fifth place finish with a bevy of new faces, chiefly from the Canadiens. But they may have an insurmountable defense problem.

The bellwether of their blue line, Doug Harvey, 39 in December showed signs of slipping last season and it's doubtful whether Junior Langlois, Harry Howell and young Jim Neilson can take up the slack.

The New York goal is well-guarded by ex-Canadian Proven and the Rangers have proven scorers in Andy Bathgate (61 points), Camille Henry, Don McKenney and Earl Ingarfield.

The Boston Bruins seem destined to finish a dismal last for the third straight year.

Some doubt still exists as to whether Ed Johnston is a goalie of major league caliber. Last year, his rookie season, he sported a 4.00 goals-per-game average.

THE BRUINS' DEFENSE will be stronger with the acquisition of veteran Tom Johnson from Canadiens and rookie Bob McCord to go along with Leo Boivin, Doug Mohns and Ted Green.

But Boston still has only one proven forward line (Johnny Bucyk, Murray Oliver and Tom Williams) so Coach Milt Schmidt probably will spend the better part of the season experimenting.

Look for:

Chicago to top Toronto for the NHL flag with Montreal a non-contentious third.

Detroit to outlast New York for the fourth and final playoff spot and Boston bringing up the rear.

Prairie Schooner By Sam Hunter Done In Detail

By GLENN SCHOTTEN

The prairie schooner, heavily-timbered and loaded with kids, oak buckets and crude tools, creaks along, with Pa at the reins, Ma beside him and four stout horses up front.

A rifle-ready mounted scout sidles alongside the wagon as an Indian brave and squaw, seemingly friendly, raise their hands skyward in a gesture of "We like you; go on through!"

The schooner passes a pioneer wife milking a tethered cow. A maid makes butter in a wooden churn.

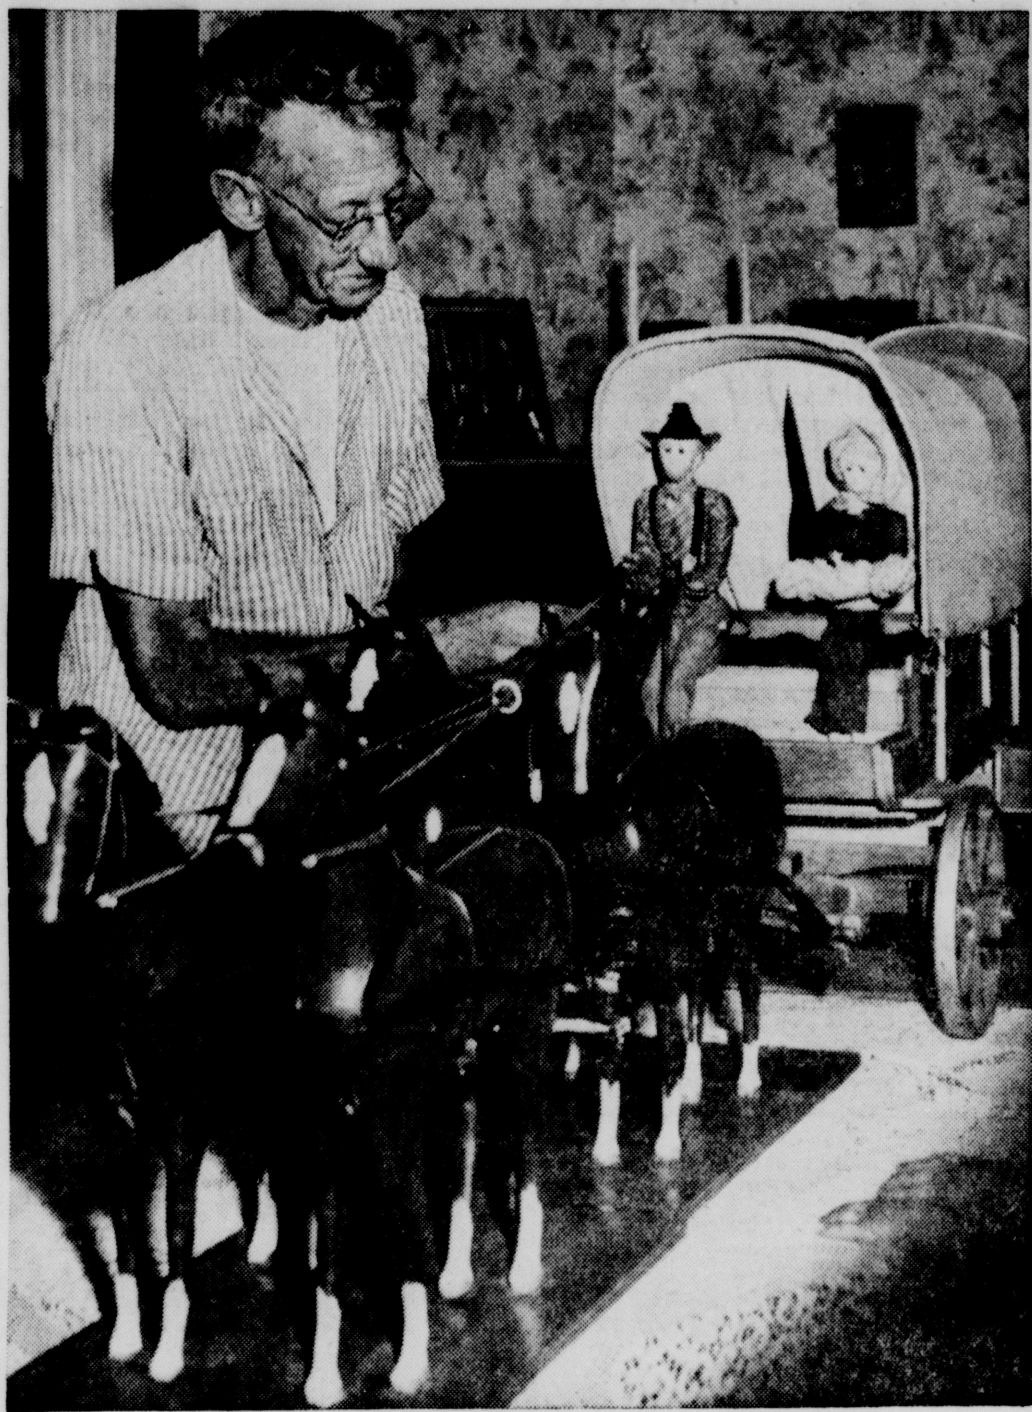

Something out of "Wagon Train"? Actually, it's something out of the imagination and industry of Sam Hunter, a retired Mullins plant finisher, who whittled this bit of the Old West to while away his time.

HUNTER, WHO lives at 137 Sharp Ave., needed something to pass hours of enforced idleness when ill health brought an end to his 32-year Mullins career. While watching "Wagon Train", one of his favorite TV westerns, the idea for the Conestoga wagon took shape by degrees.

One day about two years ago he swung into action in his shop. Without benefit of plans except for those in his mind, he started fashioning the wagon of maple wood, first shaping the running gears and undercarriage. Part of the work was done with power tools, past such as the toolbox, spoked wheels, water barrels and equipment were hand-carved with a penknife.

Then came the bows which were covered with muslin to simulate canvas, the distinguishing feature of the prairie schooner.

THE METICULOUS CARVER

WESTWARD, HO! — After two years of carving, sawing and whittling, Sam Hunter of Sharp Ave., retired Mullins employee, has finished this prairie schooner, complete to the last detail.

didn't forget the details that, by some workers, might have been overlooked. The fifth "wheel" used to balance the front wheels was tucked up under the carriage out of sight. He even added the "dog", a wooden prong at the bottom center of the bed which chewed into the ground and helped hold the wagon on a hillside.

Bay horses came next, and thereby hangs a tale. "Believe it or not one of the hardest jobs was setting the horses' eyes at the right angle," Hunter said. "Set them too close, that's wrong; too wide, that's wrong, too." Carving two teams almost identical in size and proportion was job enough, but setting in the glass eyes was the most perplexing.

After a month's work on the white pine horses and still more time on the tedious task of making harness and other trappings, Hunter added the human figures to guide the wagon. He tailored the clothing for arms, and Sam's wife, Margaret, dressed the man. Then came the mounted scout, Indian couple, milkmaid and cow and other figures of frontier days, all made and clothed by Hunter.

Though adults are amazed at the detail in the home-made wagon and horses, children form the most appreciative audience. Among those who have been charmed by Hunter's work were Mrs. Marilyn Dillon's primary children at Prospect School where the wagon was on display.

Town Hall

That it lived and thrived here as a high form of adult education from 1943 to 1963 is answer enough to their question.

When the "old-timers" of Town Hall activity recall the lectures, they cannot help but recall also a tiny figure wending its way to N. Lincoln. If the chairman - in - charge had looked out on the audience and seen Lida Blackburn missing, it would have been as though sky was no longer blue or grass, green. Throughout the 20 - year series Miss Blackburn trudged on foot through fair weather and foul, even in last year's sub-freezing nights.

THE EXPERIMENT in adult education is considered to be unique in the United States. Many of the great cities with a wealth of population supported outstanding speaking programs,

NOT GOING ANYPLACE — Elevator operator Sharon Burke, 20, found her job at Sheraton Hotel in Akron a pain in the neck the other day. Sharon put her head out the door to see if any passengers were coming. The doors shut and Sharon was stuck for an hour before workmen freed her. The hotel's bell captain, Lee Allen, tries to console her.

but Salem is the only city of its size known to carry on a free lecture series for so many years.

Quaker City, of course, was fortunate for its geographical position. Lying roughly midway between the great metropolises of Pittsburgh and Cleveland, the Town Hall planners could latch onto top talent traveling between the big cities for appearances.

For most of the history of Town Hall, Miss Mary Bowman, proprietor of the Fiesta Shop, was the connecting link between Salem and the country's and world's greats. After Ralph W. Mawley, then editor of The Salem News, died, it befell her to contact the agencies and book the speakers. . . and she did it with zestful success.

Chiefly through her efforts, Salem audiences were privileged to see and hear, besides those already mentioned, the likes of Crown Prince Otto of Austria, a personal friend of Dr. Emeny; Margaret Bourke-White, Dr. Ralph Sockman, Catherine Drinker Bowen, Daniel Schorr, William L. Shirer, Harrison Salisbury, Dr. Bergen Evans, Robert St. John, Alfred Lilienthal, Eddy Gilmore, Dorothy Thompson, Gen. Carlos Romulo and Madame Wellington Koo. The list is long and illustrious over the two decades.

The programs metamorphosed interestingly, following the path of recent history. They were heavily stacked with foreign observers of the war pattern in the early days. Even after the Axis capitulation, the programs were predominantly internationally political in nature. Then as "peace" returned and deepened, there was time for a return to more aesthetic topics, such as the animal and plant wonders of Africa, treasure diving, or the marvelous sight of strange lands, although politics was never far from the scene.

IS TOWN HALL MISSED? Like the passing of horses as a mode of transportation left a void in the hearts of horse lovers, those close to Town Hall feel as though a dear friend has died. By their non-attendance, the rest have already expressed their lack of sympathy. Most attribute the popularity of television to Town Hall's death. Radio and movies and expanded newspaper coverage have taken their toll, too, of persons who might otherwise attend live lectures.

One man who feels the loss deeply accredits Town Hall's demise to an anti-intellectualism trend. He declared "This is true, not just in Salem, but everywhere."

Regardless of the reasons for its passing, Town Hall has outgrown its purpose and has passed from the scene forever, a "plus" chapter in Salem's 157-year history.

Forerunner of the tuberculosis stamp and the Christmas seal was the set of Sanitary Fair stamps which were sold at the Northern Ohio Sanitary Fair in Cleveland, Ohio, which opened on February 22, 1864.

Texas, Gunning For Cotton Bowl Bid, Battles TCU

Unbeaten Memphis State, Being Eyed For Bowl, Meets Chattanooga Today

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Memphis State, once called "little" but now an unbeaten little giant with giant-sized aspirations, goes after a major bowl bid tonight.

Sugar Bowl officials are expected to be in the stands at Memphis when the emerging Southern power, unbeaten in eight starts, takes a heavy favorite role into its game with Chattanooga.

Coach Billy (Spook) Murphy's Tennessee Tigers have failed to win only against mighty Mississippi, the nation's third-ranked team, and that one went to a scoreless tie.

"This is the first year Memphis State has been a power," a Sugar Bowl source said, "but the Sugar Bowl has no policy that would preclude an invitation to Memphis State. They are not being overlooked."

Mighty Ol' Miss, 6-0-1, for the season, is first in line for the host spot, which could set up a rematch of that 0-0 affair with Memphis State. Mississippi, however, risked that standing against tough old foe Tennessee, 3-4, at Memphis this afternoon.

An Ol' Miss upset could throw things wide open, with No. 7 Alabama, No. 9 Auburn, Georgia Tech and North Carolina State all very much in the running.

Alabama, 6-1, and Georgia Tech, 6-2, a pair of ancient rivals, met at Birmingham; Auburn, 6-1, was at Georgia, 4-3-1 and North Carolina State had a tough test lined up with Florida State.

The top game of the day remained Texas' attempt to retain its No. 1 national standing and remain the nation's only major unbeaten, untied team. The Longhorns, gunning for the host role in the Cotton Bowl, had a home game against Southwest Conference foe Texas Christian, a thrice-beaten team that long has served as a jinx to Texas.

Second-ranked Navy, led by the brilliant Roger Staubach, also could have its hands full. The Middies take their 7-1 record to Durham, N.C., to play Duke, 5-2-1, a team they have not beaten in nine years.

In the Big Ten, No. 4 Michigan State, No. 8 Illinois and Ohio State all are in the running for the title and a spot in the Rose Bowl. Michigan State played host to Notre Dame, Illinois was at tough Wisconsin and Ohio State at home to Northwestern.

Washington, well on the way to securing the host spot in the Tournament of Roses, played UCLA.

No. 5 Oklahoma and No. 10 Nebraska, locked in the battle for the Big Eight crown and an Orange Bowl berth, had warm-up games before their head-to-head meeting a week from now.

Tough Missouri visited Oklahoma while Nebraska was heavily favored against Oklahoma State.

Pitt, ranked sixth on its 6-1 record, was at home to Army.

Halfback Willie Brown broke open a tight aerial game with a 54-yard run in the third period and Southern California defeated Oregon State 28-22 in one of the two major games on Friday night's schedule. In the other Detroit edged Xavier of Ohio 6-0.

BOWLING

Ethel Bricker Lois Longanecker

Mrs. Ethel Bricker of Leontina (left) and Miss Lois Longanecker (right) are two of eight women bowlers in the district to reach the finals of the Individual Match Game Championship eliminations being rolled this weekend at Youngstown. The winner of this district elimination tournament will earn a trip to Dallas, Texas, for the national finals in January.

These two area girls will be competing in head to head matches starting Saturday noon at Rainbow Lanes when Mrs. Bricker meets Ruth Linamen for a two game set and Miss Longanecker takes on Virginia Nasse.

The next set, the pair will be pitted against each other, and at 6 p.m. at McGuffey Lanes, Mrs. Bricker will bowl against Pauline Shaffer and Betty Weaver, while Miss Longanecker duels Peg Sabo and Georgianna Eakins.

Sunday noon at Bellwick Bowl will be Lois' turn to meet Weaver and Linamen while Ethel is busy with Eakins and Nasse. The action will move to McKinley Lanes at 6 where they will make their final bid for the crown with Mrs. Bricker meeting Peg Sabo and Miss Longanecker vieing with Pauline Shaffer in the semi-finals. Then, one last position round with first and second place, third and fourth place, etc., battling down to the wire, until one emerges victorious.

Mrs. Bricker, who is sponsored in the tourney by Kysler Lanes of Columbiana, bowls in three leagues, averaging 175 in Columbiana, 173 at Timberlanes here and 172 in Washingtonville. In her 16th year of bowling, she has competed in the eliminations the past three years, finishing fifth last year and in the runner-up position the year before. Her highest game has been a 266 and her best series a 658, which she rolled in the eliminations in 1961.
